

The world's first

640 kV extruded high-voltage DC cable system

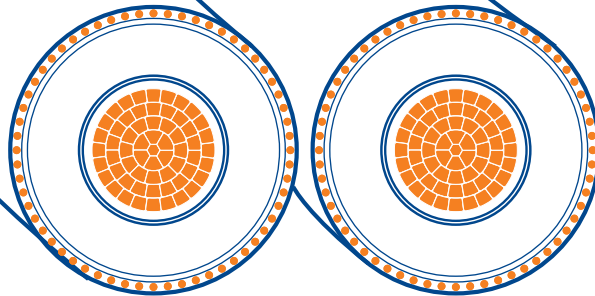

increases the power transmission over longer distances with even lower losses

A single pair of 640 kV extruded high-voltage DC cables could for example transmit enough green power to supply about

3 million households

Equivalent to more than the number of households in Denmark

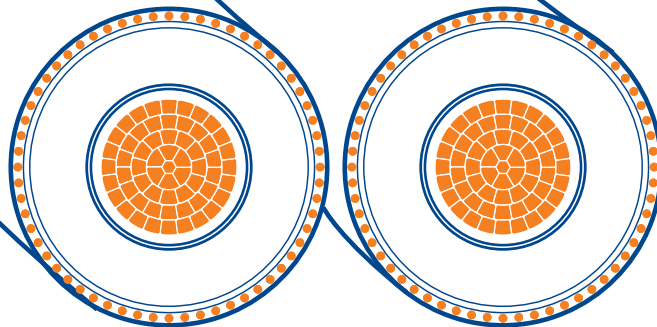

3.1 GW
capacity

The world's first

640 kV extruded high-voltage DC cable system

increases the power transmission over longer distances with even lower losses

3.1 GW capacity

A single pair of 640 kV extruded high-voltage DC cables could for example transmit enough green power to supply about

3 million households

Equivalent to more than the number of households in Denmark